With George, you can easily create and manage your orders. As soon as you created and signed an order, George lists it in your "Upcoming orders". Please find below a short explanation of the order types that could appear under the section "Upcoming orders".

Please note

To get more information about your orders with George Web, please navigate to the "All about your orders" section via "Your Products" on the top of the overview.

To get more information about your orders with George App, you can tap on your account and then on "Orders & Authorisations".

Standing Orders

Standing orders are recurring orders that George executes always with the same receiver, amount, and text (if entered). You sign standing orders once and George will execute them at the selected time interval. George will display your standing orders under your upcoming orders. And, of course, you can edit them.

Sweep Orders

Sweep orders are also recurring orders, but are a little different from standing orders. When a sweep order is set up, George will always deduct the money that is above the defined threshold and transfer it to wherever you decide - most probably to your savings account. You sign sweep orders once and George will execute them at the selected time interval. You will see your sweep orders in your upcoming orders and can, of course, also edit them.

Scheduled Orders

Scheduled orders are those orders that you created and that have an execution date which lies in the future. These orders are already signed and appear in your "Upcoming orders" list. If they are not signed yet, George will show them under your "Open orders" in the "All about your orders" section.
