Whenever you want to transfer money from one of your accounts to your savings account, you can do so easily by hitting the “Own transfer”-button in the overview of George.

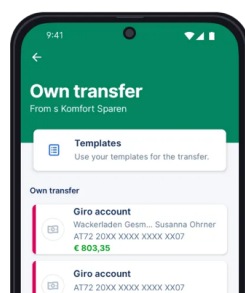

Own transfers are transfers to your own accounts that you see here with George. It is an easy and quick way to top up your balance by shifting money from one of your accounts to your savings account or to any other of your accounts – or the other way around. The money will be available immediately after signing.

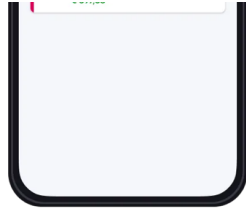

Here is how to make own transfers with George:

App

- 1 Select account from which you want to send money. Make sure that the balance is not zero. For transfers to other accounts, just select the respective account such as "savings".
- 2 Tap on "Own transfer".
- 3 Select the receiver account.

- 4 Insert the amount which George should transfer.
- 5 If needed, edit the payment or sender reference and the execution date. If you do not change the execution date, George will execute your transfer as soon as possible.
- 6 Tap either on "Save & new" or "Sign".
- 7 Sign your transfer.

Web Browser

- 1 Select account from which you want to send money. Make sure that the balance is not zero. For transfers to other accounts, just select the respective account such as "savings".
- 2 Click "Own transfer".
- 3 Select the receiver account.
- 4 Insert the amount which George should transfer.
- 5 If needed, edit the payment or sender reference and the execution date. If you do not change the execution date, George will execute your transfer as soon as possible.
- 6 Click either on "Save & new" or "Sign".
- 7 Sign your transfer to complete it.

Immediately, you will see your new balance on both accounts, the one you transferred money from and the one you transferred it to. This is a convenient way to shift money between accounts in real-time whenever you need it.
