In the lifetime of a credit card, you might make a lot of payments with it. Some are regular and recurring, some of them might be special purchases for certain occasions. Either way, it's good to keep track of what you're buying and paying for. With George, you can access your credit card history any time and easily with just a few clicks.

Please note

Your credit card history usually goes back 3 years. If you get the 7 years archive plugin (available in the George Store), you can extend this time period to 7 years.

App

How to get there

Choose your credit card in your overview.
Go to "Transactions".

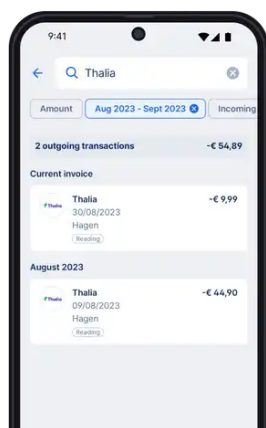

What's in there?

There, you can access your credit card history, that consists of all your credit card invoices. Basically, it shows you all past transactions.

If you pay something with your credit card, it will usually show up in the history a few days later.

You will also see pay ups (additional payments to increase your available amount) there.

You can search for an amount, a certain date or incoming and outgoing transactions.

Authorised payments will be shown in an extra row.

If you click on one transaction, George will offer you even more detailed information about it, like the location or booking reference.

There, you can also claim a transaction with just one click.
