Your Debit Card Overview

Last Article Update 30.06.2023

Your debit card belongs to one of your accounts. You can use this card to withdraw cash from ATMs and make purchases in shops or on the internet. You can find all the important information about your card in your debit card overview.

How to get to the overview

To get to the debit card overview, select your current account in the George overview. With the George app, click on "Functions" and select the desired card from the list. In the web browser, click on "Your products" in the overview, then on the current account and, in the next step, on "Debit card(s)" in the side menu on the left.

As with George Web, there is an overview of your debit card in the app. To access the administration of your debit card, first open the desired account in the George app. You will then find the overview by clicking on "Functions" in your account.

In the overview you can see the name to which the debit card is assigned and the card number. In addition, all authorised payments, i.e. all payments that have already been made but not yet booked, are shown. And George shows you the expenses with your card, sorted by month, starting with the most recent.

If you click on "Info" in the menu bar, you will see further important information, such as the card type, the card number, linked accounts to the card, the limit, the validity period and the status.

Web Browser

To get to the overview of your debit card, click on "Your products" on the George overview page in the main menu and then click on your debit card in the current account of your choice. You will then see an overview of your debit card. The card, the name it is issued to, the expiry date, the available amount, the card type and the card number are shown.

In addition, George shows you your limit. You can increase it directly in the overview. You can find out more about your limit by using the "Expand" function, namely your personal daily limit for purchases in shops and online as well as for cash withdrawals at ATMs.
